Forword

The Wyoming Historical Society awards program recognizes efforts to preserve Wyoming history. Awards candidates will have written, published, and copyrighted works pertaining to Wyoming history or will have made significant contributions in historical compilations for which adequate publisher markets do not exist.

The awards program also recognizes significant contributions in other areas of historical activity.

The Society encourages every member, through personal contact with chapter presidents and other Society members, and/or publicity in the media, including Wyoming History News, to nominate individuals or groups who have made significant contributions for awards.

Award nominations will be displayed at the annual meeting. Each nominating chapter should designate an individual to retrieve the chapter nominations following the awards luncheon.

The Society's Executive Director will post each year's recipients on the Society's website at www.wyshs.org.

Interested persons may, with the approval of the Wyoming Historical Society Executive Board, contribute to Wyoming history by establishing and donating to an award that would become part of this program and be administered by the Society. The donor may specify the rules for the award and designate what the award will be. For details contact Society headquarters at P. O. Box 247, Wheatland, WY 82201, preferably via e-mail to linda@wyshs.org.

Awards Committee

The committee's duty is to judge nominations in accordance with rules established by the Society's executive committee. The executive committee appointed the following members to the 2023 awards committee: Jane Gebhart, Chair; Ruth Lauritzen, Green River; John Davis, Worland; Bob Townsend, Atlantic City.

The awards committee may move nominations to other categories.

The awards committee may award an Honorable Mention in any or all categories.

The awards committee will meet in July to judge the nominations.

The awards committee may nominate and make awards on its own when no chapter or individual has nominated a project or activity worthy of an award in a category.

At the award committee's discretion, an award may not be given in a category if the committee feels none of the nominations are worthy of an award. Committee decisions are final.

The chair will compile a list with the name of the award, the award winner's name, who made the nomination, the committee's reason for its selection, and contact information (i.e., the chapter's and the award winner's address, phone number and/or e-mail address).

The committee chair will present certificates, plaques, and other awards at the annual meeting.

Awards Program Rules

The awards period is January 1 to December 31, 2022. Books must have been published during that period to be eligible for a 2023 award. All student awards shall be completed during the school year.

Recognized activities are publications, exhibits, and other projects related to Wyoming history. Books must have been published during the year prior to the nomination, i.e.

County chapters submit nominations. Chapters are urged to use awards as a means to honoring members, projects, researchers, historians, students, and teachers.

Society members who reside in counties with no county chapter may submit nominations.

Submit one nomination per category except in cases where more than one award may be given (e.g., one award is given in the Publications-Reference category so a chapter or individual may submit one nomination).

Nomination package contents (Submit all parts of the nomination simultaneously.)

1. Complete the 2023 Nomination Form on Page 6 for each nomination (You may request an electronic copy of the form (in Word) from the Society via email to linda@wyshs.org)
2. Include adequate supporting documentation to aid the awards committee in its selection (some awards require specific additional information)
3. Submit the support materials required by each type of awards category.
4. Include a cover letter and list all county nominees.

Support materials

Print publication nominations include a copy of the publication. Printed materials will not be returned but will be donated to the local library of the chapter hosting the annual meeting.

Fine art nominations (e.g., paintings, sculpture, etc.) include color photos of the piece, not the original.

Online nominations (i.e., website, social media) include a link to the site on the nomination form. Do not include printed materials.

Documentary nominations must include an audio or visual copy, as appropriate, of the production.

For young historians, each competing student may consult with teachers and/or parents to determine a project topic, which can be based on new or previously unpublished information obtained through interview or research, or the project can be a creative presentation of previously known facts. The Society encourages History Day formatted projects such as documentaries, exhibits, performances, websites, as well as traditional essays along with their supporting written materials.

Maurine Carley Memorial Historic Preservation Award (1 Award)

Maurine Carley, a recognized historian and writer, was a long-time, active member of the Wyoming Historical Society and served as treasurer for twenty years. She was dedicated to the preservation of the history of Wyoming and shared this dedication in her writing and in serving as a trail guide for many Historical Society Treks.

Submit electronic nominations according to the instructions on page 21.

Award is made to an organization or an individual in recognition of an outstanding project in the field of historic preservation. A historic preservation project may span many years, and people are encouraged to submit projects that may represent Wyoming's diverse cultural heritage. Projects may be underway or shall have been completed within two years the nomination.

Possible nominations may include residential, commercial, public, religious, industrial, or institutional buildings, historic sites, trails, cemeteries, archaeological sites, and other places significant to Wyoming history. Projects that focus on objects or items such as photographs, documents, antiques, or books, and oral history programs or similar projects are not eligible.

Preservation of sites on the National Register of Historic Places (NRHP) that comply with the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Historic Preservation will be given special consideration. Sites not enrolled in the NRHP may be eligible for consideration.

Buildings or objects that have been moved from their original location are generally not eligible for listing in the NRHP. These buildings or sites currently used or planned for a use other than that for which they were originally constructed may be considered for the award. These buildings or sites should retain features and characteristics strongly reminiscent of the original use. For example, a home converted for use as a bed and breakfast might retain these features and traits.

A Society chapter or the Society's executive board may submit nominations.

Nominations and materials submitted with the nomination, such as photographs, brochures, and newspaper and magazine articles, must be electronically processed and sent by e-mail.

The Historic Preservation Committee will use the information on Page 23 to determine the recipient.

The Society's historic preservation committee will review applications. The committee may give more than one award. Other nominations may be eligible to receive special recognition.

The recipient receives $300 and a plaque.

The chair will document the name of the award, the award winner, who made the nomination, the committee's reason for its selection, and contact information (i.e., the chapter's and the award winner's address, phone number and/or e-mail address).

The chair will present plaques and monetary awards at the annual meeting.

Outstanding Preservation Project Award

Submit electronic nominations according to the instructions on page 25.

Award is made to an organization or an individual in recognition of an outstanding project in the field of historic preservation that does not focus on the physical preservation of a historic building or site.

Eligible projects focus on the preservation of objects or items such as photographs, documents, films, or books significant to Wyoming's history. For example, the preservation of historic photographic plates may qualify for this award. Additionally, preservation of equipment or tools, such as the restoration of a historic wagon, may qualify for the award.

Projects may be underway or shall have been completed within two years of being nominated for the award.

Nominations and materials submitted with the nomination, such as photographs, brochures, and newspaper and magazine articles, must be electronically processed and sent by e-mail.

A Society chapter or the Society's executive board may submit nominations.

The Society's historic preservation committee will review applications. The committee may give more than one award. Other nominations may be eligible to receive special recognition.

The recipient receives $300 and a plaque.

The chair will document the name of the award, the award winner, who made the nomination, the committee's reason for its selection, and contact information (i.e., the chapter's and the award winner's address, phone number and/or e-mail address).

The chair will present plaques and monetary awards at the annual meeting.
